INTERIOR DESIGN PORTFOLIO

SENIOR INTERIOR DESIGNER & TEAM LEAD

SELECTED WORKS 2022-2026

PROFILE

DESIGN LEADERSHIP

I’m Mahmoud Adel
Over the past decade, I’ve worked across residential, commercial and hospitality interiors, combining hands-on design with team leadership.

My role is often to establish a clear design direction, help teams develop it coherently, and carry that intent through to the final visual output across multiple projects.

DESIGN DEVELOPMENT

The design direction

A coastal palette developed through softer forms and more deliberate focal points.

What we retained

Pale mineral finishes, arches and natural timber preserve a connection to the original restaurant.

What we developed

Sculptural lighting and curved seating give the interior a clearer hierarchy. At the entrance and bar, stronger architectural frames make each destination easier to recognise.

INTERIOR STUDY A

A consistent character

Sand tones, tactile surfaces and soft profiles connect the interior, covered social spaces and frontage.

SKETCH & MATERIAL STUDIES

Material direction

Warm reflective surfaces

Gold-toned niches and warm light reinforce the curves.

A pale tactile base

Stone, cream upholstery and light timber keep the dining furniture visually connected.

A blue accent

Translucent stools pick up the coastal colour palette.

Indicative finish study based on the supplied design views

The niche as a complete setting

FORM & SEATING

The banquette repeats the arch geometry and makes the recess a usable dining place.

SURFACE & LIGHT

Reflective infill catches the light. A concealed line above the seat separates the soft upholstery from the wall.

SKETCH & MATERIAL STUDIES

Stone, foliage and blue

The communal table

A broad pale top rests on a rough stone base. Their contrasting surfaces give the central piece a distinct presence.

The vertical connection

The tree connects the table to the ribbon light overhead. Its foliage softens the mineral and metallic surfaces.

The colour accent

Blue translucent stools contrast with the solid base while keeping the seating visually light.

DESIGN DEVELOPMENT

Arrival and the main dining room

A stronger greeting point and a clearer hierarchy within the restaurant.

BEFORE

AFTER

AFTER

A Arrival

The wine display gives way to a sculptural reception table, BLU lettering and a wave-like pendant.

The entrance gains a clear branded focal point.

B Dining room

A busy patterned ceiling becomes a quieter surface. Gold niches, a luminous canopy and curved seating define the room.

Fewer competing textures let the main forms stand out.

Dining edge and bar

Seating, planting and light become part of the architectural composition.

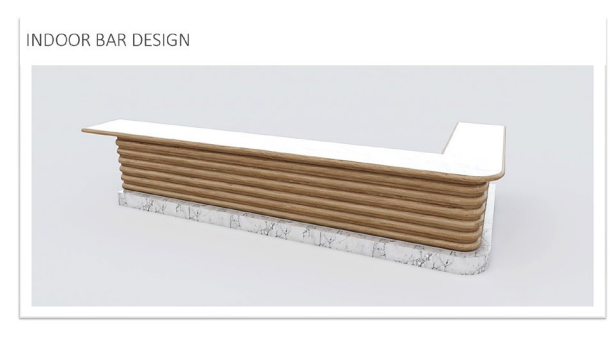

BEFORE

AFTER

C Dining edge

The straight striped banquette becomes a softer seating edge, with neutral upholstery, planting and integrated light.

Layered planting and light give the dining edge more depth.

D Bar

The linear counter study develops into a complete setting, framed by an organic opening, suspended shelves and a textured canopy.

The bar gains a distinct architectural identity.

Covered spaces and the frontage

The same coastal character carries into the social spaces and exterior.

E Covered social space

BEFORE

AFTER

A sculptural canopy and rippled ceiling replace the rectilinear shade language, giving the social space a distinct focal point.

F Pool terrace

AFTER / NIGHT VIEW

A curved frontage and integrated edge lighting give the terrace a stronger evening identity.

G Façade and arrival

BEFORE

AFTER

Timber framing, draped fabric and illuminated signage define the entrance more clearly within the glazed frontage.

Parallel Design Development

My role was to set the common design direction, coordinate two parallel explorations, and help refine each into a distinct proposal.

Team 1 / Option A

Team 2 / Option B

Light and focal points

Gold niches, a luminous ceiling feature and a central tree organise the room around distinct focal points.

Rhythm and spatial framing

Vertical fins, a shaped opening and suspended curves define the edges of the space within the same restrained palette.
